DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wang et al. (6,489,168). This rejection was made in the previous Office Action (mailed 10/05/05) and remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. Claims 3-5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wang (6,489,168) in view of Borders (6,351,678). This rejection was made in the previous Office Action (mailed 10/05/05) and remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments, filed 12/28/05, with respect to the Inoue reference have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of claims 3-7 under Inoue has been withdrawn. See Applicant's statement on Assignee rights on page 11 of arguments.

6. Applicant's arguments filed 12/28/2005 with respect to the Wang and Borders references have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant has argued that the combination of Borders with Wang lacks motivation. That is, one of ordinary skill in the art would not be motivated to combine Borders with Wang since Borders is in non-analogous art. The Examiner respectfully disagrees. The Examiner concedes that Borders teaches a medical device system and not a reactor system. This does not preclude the reference from being analogous art, however. While Borders teaches a medical system, both references teach devices that are automated for certain functions in response to input from the user. The input is given through the screen in both references and the operator receives information on the control screen in response to the information entered. Borders adds the additional feature of reminding the user which menu selection has been selected. The Examiner believes that one of ordinary skill in the arts would recognize that this is a desirable feature in a control system that displays and receives information on a touchable screen – as in Wang.

7. Applicant has also argued that the passage from Wang cited by the Examiner (column 6, lines 29-54) containing the teaching of adding a quenching agent is entirely different from picking out commands related to a selected vessel and determining if the procedure is correct. The Examiner respectfully disagrees. As noted by Applicant, the control system of Wang (100) determines whether or not a conversion target has been reached and then terminates the reaction via quenching agent. The Examiner considers the conversion determination by the control system to be analyzing the reaction protocol for a selected vessel. The addition of the quenching agent is a command picked out by the control system that is related to the selected vessel. Therefore, the Examiner believes Wang does indeed teach an analysis means for analyzing a protocol prescribing a series of commands for synthesis of compounds and picking out commands related to the selected vessel from said protocol.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
